

Newman Memorial Hospital set to welcome their new Chief Nursing Officer

Newman Memorial Hospital would like to announce an important addition to our staff. Catherine Ewing, DNP, R.N. will be joining our team as the new Chief Nursing Officer. Ms. Ewing will bring with her a wealth of expertise and experience that is sure to be an asset as NMH continues to grow. While currently the Chief Nurse Executive of a healthcare delivery system in Alaska, she has worked in Oklahoma before. She began her career as a Registered Nurse at Integris Baptist in OKC, OK and has also practiced in Michigan. In addition to her rich experiences, she has exhibited a notable history of educational and professional honors. With her record of professional and personal services, she will undoubtedly be an asset to our community as well as our facility. She was employed within the Veterans Affairs Health Care System in OKC, OK for over 7 years. This experience should prove invaluable as we move forward with our efforts to provide veterans services at NMH. We look forward to welcoming Ms. Ewing when she officially begins her position on November 28, 2016.
